

Call for Country Ambassadors

The WiE Country Ambassador Programme

WiE's members are spread across the globe. The Country Ambassador Programme (CAP) aims to create regional hubs for women and non-binary economists in different regions to connect, meet-up and enable a more local dialogue. In the context of the CAP, WiE will organise events focused on local contexts in the local language, and discuss more region-specific issues related to economics and gender equality.

To run the CAP, WiE is looking for country ambassadors whose work at WiE will focus on the specific countries or regions in which they are based.

Why become a WiE Country Ambassador?

WiE is a volunteer-run, non-profit association established to advance gender equality in the field of economics. Our goal is to encourage equal opportunity and balanced representation of genders in the economics profession across the academic, business and public sectors. To this end, we want to continue building a diverse international platform and we are looking for motivated members from all corners of the world who share in our vision.

Becoming a country ambassador will enable you to learn from WiE's global network of women economists, as well as share the research, knowledge and experiences of women in economics in your region. You will receive support from WiE's various teams, learn how to organise regional events, cross-promote the work of WiE and our partners, and to connect with other like-minded economists in your region and around the world. You will also have the opportunity to help shape and grow a young organisation for all women in economics.

Who is a WiE Country Ambassador?

The WiE Country Ambassador is a representative of WiE's values and wants to create spaces to discuss gender equality and economic issues with a focus on their region or country. Positions are available for individuals from any country, region or language group.

The country ambassadors' duties will include:

- Promoting WiE's work in their region/country/language
- Creating a local network of women and non-binary economists to organize events, produce original content, share local research, and pursue any other activities that
- Organising events in the local language on, for example: gender economics, diversity and inequality, women in economics, business, finance or other industries, career progression, mentoring, networking, and any other relevant topic of interest to the local membership base.

- Staying up to date on recent developments in economics pertaining to their region/country and feeding relevant articles and developments back to WiE's editorial team

Applicants must meet the following requirements:

- Willing to become a member of WiE (if you are presently not a member, visit <https://women-in-economics.com> and become a member today!)
- Have a demonstrated academic background, professional background or interest, in economics and related fields
- Have a desire to build a network and organise events on gender equality within your country

How to Apply
